Staff

Head of Welsh Department and whole school bilingualism:
Ms. Nia Meredith

Teacher of Welsh: Miss. Katie Pickin

We are also fortunate that we have a 1st language Welsh speaker as a cover supervisor that when any cover is required will always cover the Welsh Department: Miss Awen Davies-Jones

Careers

Jobs advertised in Wales often ask for Welsh as essential or desirable. If you have Welsh language skills and the other candidates trying for a job don't then you're already one step ahead. All public sector organisations in Wales have to provide Welsh language services so this makes Welsh-speaking employees an asset to companies.

- Teacher
- Translator
- Tourist information Centre Assistant
- Media in Wales
- Health and care services or Police
- Catering
- Nursing
- Teaching assistant

Pupil views

As we live in Wales it makes sense to be able to speak the language of the country.

More and more people are learning Welsh every month. The government target is for 1 million Welsh speakers by 2050

Welsh is the language of Wales. Speaking Welsh WILL help in the future, especially with job opportunities in Wales.

More and more employers are asking for Welsh today. It's an useful GCSE to have.
